To Advertisers.—The VERMONT DAILY TRANSCRIPT has the largest circulation in St. Albans and in Franklin County, of any daily paper, and is on that account, if no other, the best medium for advertising.

Local Items.

Interesting matter, original or selected, may always be found on the first page.

OUR DAILY.—Those wishing to secure copies of our daily paper can do so at Merrifield's and Baker's bookstores, as well as of carriers, and at the office. Copies of our weekly paper may also be had at these places.

CHITTENDEN County Democratic Convention is called to meet at Essex Junction Saturday, August 15th, at 10 A. M.

GRAND CONCERT.—The announcement that Grafalla's 7th Regiment Band, of New York, will give a musical entertainment at Academy Hall, on Friday evening next, is sufficient of itself to insure a good audience. This band plays at the University on Thursday, Commencement day, and is secured year after year for that service, because it is the best band to be had. A novelty of entertainment here will be a wood and straw instrument of music, and also a Russian piano. See advertisement.

THE SERENADE.—On Monday evening the Brigade Band—the St. Albans Knights of Banditti—paid their respects to our local Freight and Customs Agent, L. R. Kibby at his residence on Foundry Street. The well filled tables were turned upon them and they were taken in by Mr. Kibby, and treated with his characteristic and weighty hospitality. We are informed that the horns of the bands became horns of plenty.

DIVINITY SCHOOL.—The corner stone of the chapel of the Divinity School of Protestant Episcopal Church in the diocese of Massachusetts was recently laid at Cambridge with appropriate ceremonies by the Bishop of the diocese. The engraved plate deposited in the corner stone states that the building is to be erected "at the sole cost and charge of Robert Means Mason, as a memorial chapel to his lamented wife, Sarah Allen Mason, and his beloved brother, the Rev. Charles Mason, D. D."

BURGLARY.—A burglar broke into a room in the Central House, Rutland on Monday night, and his entrance awoke the occupant, who made a noise, which caused the intruder to leave in a hurry. He was, however, caught by the proprietor of the hotel, and his room being searched, property evidently not his own, was found. A pair of nippers with which to turn keys in locks were also found. The burglar, who gave the name of Aaron Clark, of Albany, N. Y., was taken into custody and committed to jail, prior to examination. It appears that he tried other rooms also, but on a noise being made by the inmates left to try others.

Missisquoi Springs.

Mr. J. C. Fitzpatrick of the N. Y. Herald visited Sheldon on Saturday last. We take the following extract from his interesting letter:

"The modern history of the Missisquoi Springs is briefly told. They had been known and employed by the country people hereabouts for centuries, and the little town of Sheldon, some time in the latter part of the last century. In the spring of 1866 a New York lawyer, who happened to visit this region, was cured, as he believed, by them of a cancerous affection of the mouth. He purchased the ground and springs, and with the potent aid of advertisements made the waters known quite extensively. The result was a rush of visitors here, which has quite astonished the natives and perplexed them to provide accommodation and entertainment. Beside the Missisquoi, which was developed through the exertions of the legal gentleman referred to, there are three other springs in the same valley, and all within a mile or two of the same village. These are the Vermont, the Sheldon and the Central. The latter is quite in the village. Like the Missisquoi, they were formerly known to the natives, and are all very much alike in the character of the minerals which constitute their medicinal and remedial qualities. Their owners, seeing the success of the Missisquoi, have also commenced developing them and bottling their waters and shipping them to market. The Missisquoi Springs are about two miles from the village, the Vermont one mile and the Sheldon two and a half miles. The water has no effervescence, and hence it is claimed to be equally efficacious when bottled and drunk at a distance.

Sheldon is taxed beyond its capacity to entertain those who are now seeking the recuperative agency of the springs. There is but one hotel in the place—an old-fashioned country tavern—which is fast becoming a boarding house, while every private house in the village and every farm house within an acre of several miles is overflowing with boarders. Hundreds have come, and after wandering about the country seeking, my informant, to be taken in by the inhabitants, have gone away unaccommodated, while as many more, having taken the precaution to write in advance have been refused entertainment. The population, as before stated, is four hundred, yet these four hundred have taken in about eight hundred boarders. The consequence may be imagined. Rooms have therefore been turned into sleeping apartments. Every porch and veranda along the herebefore quiet little streets of Sheldon is alive with 'city folk.' A person of fastidious taste might not seek Missisquoi as a summer resort, society is not of the most agreeable kind. The place might be a sort of modern Pandora box, concentrating as it does so many of the afflictions of mankind. People as a general thing drink the water at their houses, for it is a long way from the hotel or boarding houses to the springs. Those who do the distance in the carriages or afoot make the panoramic procession of the evils that flesh is heir to. The pleasure seeker, to repeat would not like his neighbors at the table or in the parlor. Scrofula walks personified in a hundred instances, while there are twelve or fifteen cases of malignant cancer. There is a tide in the affairs of Missisquoi just now, and that tide is at its flood. Whether it will continue to increase is a problem for the future. It is a sensation among the watering places. How long it will remain so is likewise a problem. The rush of visitors has induced the owner of the springs to contemplate the erection of a large hotel against next season—one capable of accommodating over five hundred people. His plans are drawn and a few spadeful of earth have been dug, but no farther progress has been made.

St. Albans is feeling the effect of the discovery, or development rather, of Missisquoi. The owner of the stage route is waxing fat over the increased gains of his business all this summer. He has been compelled to run 'extras' nearly every day.

Outside of the attractions of the mineral springs, Missisquoi and St. Albans are pleasant summer resorts. The scenery is really beautiful. Lake Champlain and the Adirondacks border the picture on the west. The Green Mountains, with Camel's Hump and Mount Mansfield, constitute a picturesque background on the east. The range runs north and disappears in the pinnacles, four miles across the Canada line. The drives among the intermediate hills and around the little lakes up the mountain give one an appetite for the excellent viands which the country produces. St. Albans butter and cheese are as much esteemed in Boston as are the dairy products of Orange county in New York. The journey here is a most delightful one, and is easily embraced within an ordinary tour during a summer vacation. From Saratoga the cars run to Whitehall, thence the steamer traverses Lake Champlain in its prettiest portion to Burlington, thence the cars run to St. Albans and the stages run to Missisquoi. The trip back may be made by way of Ticonderoga, with its historical associations, Lake George and Glenn's Falls. St. Albans itself is one of the prettiest towns in the State, and Vermont is a handsome one. It lies at the foot of the mountains at the innermost portion of the 'bench' extending up from the lake. Its houses are far apart. [Lots are not confined to 25x100.] The whole region is very healthy. [Graveyards are quite empty.] Pardon the ancient illustration, but it is a veritable rust in urbe.

DRUNKENNESS.—The Rutland Herald of Tuesday says: "More drunkenness prevailed on the streets of our village yesterday than we have observed for many a day. It being the occasion of the exhibition of Lent's New York circus, a large crowd of visitors were in town from the rural districts, many of whom seized the opportunity of being away from home to 'go on a bender,' and consequently not a few frascos were the result. Near the Bardwell House, in the evening, an altercation took place between a Frenchman named St. John, and a man whose name we were unable to learn, in which the latter had a shoulder dislocated and a couple of ribs broken. He was attended by Dr. Allen."

On July 20th, at the Congregational Church, the Middlebury Musical Union assisted by Mr. E. P. Phillips, tenor, gave a benefit to Mr. E. H. Hugley.

ACCIDENT IN BOLTON.—George Howard of Richmond, met with a serious accident in Bolton on Monday last, being thrown from his carriage down an embankment fifteen feet. He was taken up insensible and medical aid procured, when it was found that besides cuts and bruises about the head and face he had received severe internal injuries.

ARRESTED.—Frederick Plumly, the remaining participant in the murder of a Shrewsbury on Saturday evening, was yesterday morning arrested by the officers and lodged in the jail at this place. He gave himself up.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—A biblical student wishes to know, as he has no concordance, where the words of scripture may be found: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?" We believe they are to be found, with a slight variation, in the platform of those who bolt the regular nomination for Sheriff.

A man, whose letter shows him to be rather inexperienced, wishes to know if, where people differ from us in opinion, we stop their papers. Of course we do. It convinces them.

A writer signing himself "Donner," wishes to know if the Messenger is a political paper. We cannot tell him. Sometimes we think it is.

CHEAP LABOR.—A vessel recently arrived at San Francisco from China with a large amount of articles manufactured there, that had been purchased so cheap that the custom house officers thought there must be some fraud, and seized the goods. Beautiful fans, brilliantly painted by hand were purchased at a cent each; nice baskets in sets of four, but four cents a set and other articles equally low, the result of the cheap cost of living and the low wages in China.

THE PURCHASE OF ALASKA.—The warrant for the payment of the purchase money for Alaska, and General Spinner's draft for the same, were duly signed on Saturday. The following is a copy of the receipt given by the Russian Minister.

The undersigned, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, do hereby acknowledge to have received at the Treasury Department, in Washington, seven million two hundred thousand dollars in coin, being the full amount due from the United States to Russia in consideration of the cession by the latter power to the former of certain territory described in the treaty entered into by the Emperor of all the Russias and the President of the United States on the 30th day of March, 1867. (Signed) S. ROZKOV.

Washington, Aug. 1, 1868.

English Hotel.

Dr. Holland does not like the English hotels. He writes to the Springfield Republican:

"I intended to say something in this letter about English hotels, but space is getting short. I supposed when I touched England that I knew something about hotels 'kept on the European plan.' I had been to the Brevoort and the Albemarle; but I was not prepared by my experience there for my necessities here. In the matter of operating a hotel, the English are just as much behind the Americans as they are in operating a railroad. The English hotel of to-day is the old English inn of a century ago, just as the rail-car is the old stage coach. The landlord is a woman, the bar-keeper is a maiden, they eat in the office, sell cigars in the pantry, throw the principal responsibility of the establishment upon 'Boots,' employ for table-waiters persons who seem to be decayed clergymen of the Church of England, and compel their guests to hire private parlors or receive their visitors in the dining room. I cannot possibly get used to them, and as for liking them, it will be when I become insane."
